DAVID BURDENY

David Burdeny (b. 1968) was born in Winnipeg, Manitoba and currently resides in Vancouver, British Columbia. He received both his Bachelor of Interior Design and Master of Architecture at the University of Manitoba in 1993 and 1998 respectively. Primarily a self taught photographer, Burdeny's education greatly informs his penchant for simple exacting photographs of sky, horizon and the marks humankind leaves behind. Drawing influence from notable photographers such as Michael Kenna, Hiroshi Sugimoto and Fay Goodwin, Burdeny intentionally photographs in poor light and near darkness paired with unusually long exposures to see that which our eyes cannot. Moving beyond the literal, his images have been described as ominous, haunting, beautiful and meditative. Burdeny's work has been exhibited internationally and is widely collected in both private and corporate collections.
